

GENERAL TELEGRAMS.

METHODIST BISHOPS

Met in Conference at St. Louis.

St. Louis, May 14.—The Board of Methodist Episcopal Bishops met here this morning at Union Church. There were present Bishop Thomas Bowman, of St. Louis, Senior Bishop, presiding; W. L. Harris, of New York; R. S. Foster, of Boston; S. M. Merrill, of Chicago; E. G. Andrews, of Washington, D. C.; H. W. Warren, of Denver, Colo.; Cyrus W. Fox, of Minneapolis, Minn.; William X. Winde, of Topeka, Kas.; John M. Walden, of Cincinnati; W. F. Mailleux, of St. Louis. The preliminary business of the session was transacted and adjournment was had to prepare for a mass meeting to-night to be addressed by Bishop Fox.

A Little Hot Session.

Special to the Sentinel.

LAFAYETTE, La., May 14.—The city was startled to-day by a social sensation in the shape of an engagement case in connection with skating rink, which falls like a thunder-bolt in society circles. The parties implicated are high respected citizens and move in the highest circles. The story went from mouth to mouth to-day that the wife of a well-known citizen had eloped with one of our skating rink's elite several months of society flitting, which they were at last discovered. The lady before mentioned could be noticed the rinks both day and night, and her beauty and fine skating soon attracted the attention of all attendees, and her actions were in subject of much favorable comment. The gentleman (?) mentioned in connection with the affair is a well-known skating artist, and through the position he held was known to every man, woman and child in the city. He is a lady's young man, as is shown by his stay in this city attracted the attention of people through his dandy style of dress and manners. But true love never runs smooth, and resulted that way in this case. The husband captured his wife with the above individual in a position where all denials was impossible, and his wrath at the sight is not to be described. Picking up a pair of some sort the infuriated husband fixed upon the vile betrayer, reaching over his head, and threw him out of the room. The husband returned, and his wife as a wife is not known to the outer world, but it is said their words were few. The young man is said to have been the next train out to the city, and the discarded wife must have followed him, where whereabouts are unknown. The affair thus caused great excitement throughout the community, and the results thereof are self-evident. Although the names of the parties are well known they are withheld from publication at present.

An Important Mining Case.

YANKTON, Dak., May 15.—The case in which the Sitting Bull Mining Company is the appellant and the Richmond Mining Company is the respondent, now before the Supreme Court and is attracting much attention here. The case involves valuable mineral lands in the Black Hills worth probably $2,000,000, and is most ably advocated on both sides. In 1877 the corporation known as the Sitting Bull Mining Company discovered a vein of rich ore, located claim and followed the find. The Richmond Company struck a lead about the same time, and the case followed. After tunneling 610 feet the Sitting Bull Company intersected the Richmond tunnel. The Richmond Company procured a temporary injunction restraining the Sitting Bull Company from proceeding further. The case was tried before Judge Cannon and decided in favor of the Richmond Company. Fifty days were consumed in the trial and the defendants in the action expended thousands of dollars in procuring maps and out of the two tunnels and adjacent claims. The law of apex was the principal point involved. The Sitting Bull Company appeal from the decision. It is said that the Richmond Company's opinion claims are not as good as the United States patent. The decision of the Supreme Court is awaited with much anxiety by the mining operators of this State.

Convicts Released by a Mob.

St. Louis, May 15.—An Austin, Tex. special to the Post-Dispatch says: "This forenoon Governor Ireland received telegram from Major Gore, Superintendent of the Texas Penitentiary, giving information of the most daring and successful escape ever committed in Texas. Forty State convicts were employed on Clay's farm in Brazos County, last evening, when work was stopped by a great mob of armed men surrounding the guards and prisoners and demanding the release of the latter. The guards refused, whereupon a fight ensued with the mob. The result was a terrible one, and resulted in a victory for the attacking party, who disappeared with the convicts. There is no information as to whether there were any killed or wounded, but it is reported that several men were fatally wounded. The outrage is due to the fact that the convicts are employed on the farm outside of the penitentiary. The Governor has offered a reward of $200 for the conviction of any of the leaders of the outrage.

Death of a Young Lady.

Muskegon, May 15.—Miss Lettie Prim, a very estimable and popular young lady, died at her home in this city yesterday afternoon, after several months' illness, of consumption. She was one of the most successful teachers in Muskegon County, and for two or three years prior to her sickness she taught in the schools of this city, and by her peculiar kindness and amiability won the lasting friendship of all who heard the announcement of her death with deep feelings of sorrow. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock to-morrow from the M. P. Church by Rev. Mr. Langley, and will be attended by teachers, pupils and school officers in a body.

Dangerously Hurt by a Runaway.

Muskegon, Ind., May 14.—While hauling gravel on the streets yesterday, the team driven by James Shepp took fright and ran away. Mr. Shepp held to the lines until the wagon was torn to pieces, when he was thrown violently to the street and run over by the wheels of the wagon. He was badly bruised about the head and face, and lay for some time as if dead. He has not since recovered consciousness, and is thought to be injured internally. But little hope of his recovery is entertained either by his friends or the attending physician.

Board of Methodist Bishops.

St. Louis, May 15.—The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church continued its sessions to-day. The meetings are private and but very little information has been given to the public so far. The board was visited to-day by a committee from Cincinnati, composed of Mrs. McCallan Brown, President of the Wesleyan College, and Mrs. Charles Nordhoff, of Washington, in the interest of that college. Arrangements were made for filling local pulpits on Sunday. Quite a large number of preachers from this and neighboring States are in the city to see the Bishops.

Court Notes From Morgan County.

Special to the Sentinel.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., May 15.—Judge Kendall M. Hord, of Shelbyville, Ind., have been holding court here for a few days, and will return next week to finish up some business. The Judge is one of the brightest and most genial gentlemen in the State. The case of Willard Passmore against Geo. A. Jackson and wife for enticing away Willard's wife resulted in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $300. Willard is twenty-eight years old and his wife about eighty years old. Jackson is the old lady's nephew.

Rape Trial—A Lottery Case.

Special to the Sentinel.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., May 15.—The trial of a man named Baldenow for attempting to rape Anna Lesh, aged eleven, is now on trial in the Cass Circuit Court. Baldenow is thought to have been insane at the time. A big lottery has been played here. Some men attempted a joke on one of their friends and gave him a telegram showing that their pool had drawn $25,000. It spread over the city, and a larger sale of lottery tickets will doubtless result before the joke is fully made known.

Negro Murderers Hanged.

HUNTER'S POINT, La., May 15.—Charles Henry Rugg, the negro who murdered old Mrs. Lydia Maybee and her daughter, Mary, at Oyster Bay, La., nearly two years ago, was hanged in the jail here at 7:45 this morning. He died without a struggle.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—John Langster, a negro, was hanged at the State Prison, a thief and murderer, was hanged in the corridor of the city jail at 9 this morning.

Business Failures During the Week.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days as reported to R. G. Dunn & Co., number for the United States, 203, and for Canada, 26, or a total of 229, as against a total of 245 last week and 208 the week previous to the last. The casualties are pretty evenly divided among the different sections of the country.

Poisoned by Ice Cream.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 15.—The facts in regard to the alleged wholesale poisoning of excursionists at Tallulah, are: A great many were taken sick with nausea, caused by eating ice cream which had been kept too long in the freezers. No serious consequences have resulted, and nearly every one of those affected is well this morning. No deaths have occurred and none expected.

A Mysterious Murder.

UNION CITY, Ind., May 15.—Lee Collins, a mulatto barber, was found dead this morning in an alley on the Ohio side of town. He had been shot in the breast with a heavy charge of buckshot by some one who was unknown. The coroner's inquest held to-day develops nothing of the murder or the motive.

Fall Between the Cars and Was Killed.

St. Louis, May 15.—A Marysville, Mo., special to the Post-Dispatch says: "Henry R. Gibble, of Lowell, N. Y., a stock dealer, last night fell between freight cars on the Washburn Railroad and was killed. The remains were sent to his home to-day."

Probably Both Will Recover.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The condition of Larry O'Brien, who was stabbed, and Freeman, who was shot in the fight between both these parties last night, were much improved this morning. The physicians say that both men will probably recover.

They Can Repeat at Lecture.

YESTERDAY Miss Mary Shoemaker, a pretty girl with a merry laugh and a pretty figure, was the perfection of grace, came into Mr. Loren P. Bishop's bakery to buy some fresh rolls, and she looked at the young baker with such an irresistible way that he was quite beside himself with admiration. "Miss Shoemaker," said he, "you look so pretty that I have half a mind to go right with you and get married."

"I never refuse a dare," said the pretty girl, with flushing cheeks and eyes that sparkled with a rosy light.

Good Advice to Democrats.

[How.]

The worst blunder the Democratic leaders could commit would be to quarrel with the President or range themselves in opposition to him. It would assuredly mean the loss of him the share of the offices to which they believe they are entitled, they must bear up under the disappointment. If the honors of the party are bestowed upon men who are least entitled to them, they must be cheerful and happy as they can under the circumstances. Fierce denunciation will do no good. If they only wait long enough, the Democrats, under the policy of the President, will have all the offices.

The Matter With Gladstone.

[Irish-American.]

Mr. Gladstone's case seems to be about this: He was just spitting for a fight, but just at the last moment discovered that he wasn't loaded for bear.

Prickly Ash Bitters is not an intoxicating beverage, but a pleasant, mild laxative and efficient Tonic, acting directly on the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels.

The Massachusetts Board of Agriculture cites a suggestive instance—that of a liver-worm who spread the stable rust from fifteen horses on one and a half acres of mow in a few successive years, and destroyed three crops each season, aggregating seven and a half tons of good hay—as much as he would have secured had the manure been scattered over three times as much land.

The combination, proportion and process in preparing Hood's Scurvy Pills are peculiar to this medicine, and unknown to others.

PRESIDENT POLK'S NEPHEW.

Walking Fifty Miles to Get Away From a Retreat for the Insane at Hartford.

James Knox Polk, a nephew and namesake of the late President Polk, has for nearly a year been an inmate of the insane retreat at Hartford. For many years he occupied a large farm in this town on the banks of the Saugatuck River. With an income of $500 a month he passed his time almost alone in an ancient house near the stream, and was known as a great lover of fishing and hunting. He was genial and social, but his friends were selected with care. Those whom he made his friends were treated in a royal manner. Why he led a hermit's life in his chateau, as he termed it, was never disclosed. Three years ago, however, there seemed to come over him a sudden change. He mingled in society, and after a short courtship married a beautiful Swedish lady, to whom he devoted his entire time. The old house was transformed into a most elaborate dwelling place. Everything went on pleasantly until there came rumors of financial embarrassment. From that moment Mr. Polk was a changed man. He again became reclusive, and to forget his troubles took to the country. Despite the efforts of his family, he drank deeper and deeper, and finally there were indications of mild insanity. He seemed to understand his condition, for, after being advised to seek relief in an institution, he consented to go to Hartford. He remained there until March of the present year, when he learned that he was cured and expressed a desire to return to his home. He was allowed to do so, and for a time it seemed that the change was a wise one. The old appetite returned, however, and he was again taken to the retreat. As an inmate he has been treated with great courtesy and allowed all the freedom possible.

On Saturday last he quietly left the retreat, and following the tracks of the Consolidated road, started for home. On reaching Hartford, a distance of fifty miles, early Sunday morning he went to the residence of Benjamin Morley, who is his friend, and remained during the day. As his mental condition was observed, word was sent to Patrick Murphy, station agent at the depot here, and a friend was at once sent to Stratford to take Polk in charge. He was accompanied to his home here. He was determined not to go, and it was only by the use of force and the application of handcuffs that he was kept in subjection. He was literally lifted aboard the train last night. The scene at the depot was most distressing as his young wife again parted with him.

Disguised Whiskey.

[Natchez (Miss.) Democrat.]

We are told that yesterday a countryman came into town to get his usual supplies from his advancing merchant, and after he had laid in the necessary food supplies he ordered a gallon of fine whiskey. The liquor was duly drawn, poured into a jug, and the jug placed on the counter before the customer. The latter asked the merchant to seal the jug. The latter accordingly did so, but all the time wondering why the purchaser was so particular, but said nothing. When the sealing process was over, the customer made still another request, and he took the jug. Said he to the storekeeper: "Will you now please draw a pint of oil and pour it over that jug?" The dealer could no longer restrain his curiosity and made bold to ask the buyer what he wanted that done for. "Well, I'll tell you," said the countryman, "you see my boys are in town with me, and if they find out there's liquor in that jug there won't be a drop left in it for me when I get home. If you pour oil on the outside they'll think it's oil on the inside, and won't bother it." The merchant complied with the last request, but he says he thinks his customer lives in a prohibition district, and wants to pull the wool over the eyes of his constituents.

The President Loves Flowers.

[Washington Letter.]

Every day a magnificent basket of flowers from the White House Conservatory adorns President Cleveland's desk in his library. The gardener is particular in making this adornment as handsome as possible, for not only does the President alone see them, but the noble army of office-seekers gaze upon them while waiting for the President. Colonel Lamont has a bunch of flowers, but they are placed in a vase in somewhat of a pedantic manner, while those in the President's room are arranged with care. When Miss Cleveland was at home, the floral decorations on the table were always most elaborate; but now that the weather has a tinge of summer in it, the President seems to wish other than hot-house flowers, and to-day he sent William, the steward, out, and the latter bought a large bunch of lilacs for the dining-room, and it is said, hereafter only spring flowers will form the floral decorations at dinner.

Honors Were Easy.

[Chicago Tribune.]

"You did not dare speak to me in that manner before I married you, sir," she indignantly exclaimed. "No, nor you didn't dare come extending your arms and legs over my shoulders and slipping before I married you, mum!" he retorted. Then she cried and he professed.

Acute rheumatism is an inflammation of the joints, marked by pain, heat, redness and a tendency to suddenly shift from one joint to another. With these symptoms apply Serravallo's Great Pain Expeller, to the affected parts without delay. Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

When Tried Always Preferred.

When they once become acquainted with it, ladies invariably prefer Parker's Hair Balsam to any similar preparation. It makes the hair soft and glossy, arrests its falling off, promotes new growth, restores the original color, and has no rival as a dressing. Not a dye, not oily, highly perfumed. Only 50 cents at druggists.

PUT YOUR HAND

In a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can possibly bear, and that's Rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's Neuralgia. Such was the definition of these two diseases given his class by a Professor in a medical college, and he added: "Gentlemen, the medical profession knows no certain cure for either." The latter statement is no longer true, for it has been proved time and again that

ATHLOPHOROS

WE WILL CURE BOTH!

C. E. Tilton, Freeport, Ill., Engineer on C. & N. W. Ry., writes: "I have been troubled with Rheumatism for ten years and have been confined to the house four months at a time. Have used two bottles of ATHLOPHOROS and seem to be entirely cured. I cannot say too much for the medicine."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you pay it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed.
